

One tree.
One island.
One flour.

ISO 22000:2018

Product of Greece

This is carob.

The carob tree has grown in Crete for as long as anyone here can remember. It takes root on dry, stony ground where little else will hold, sees out the summer without irrigation, and goes on bearing fruit for generations. You will find it on hillsides and in gorges across the island, very often standing among the olive trees.

Its pods have been food around the Mediterranean since antiquity, sweet enough to eat straight from the branch, and reliable enough to carry a household through a poor year. Crete has always known what to do with them.

FROM POD TO FLOUR

We dry the pods, clean them, remove the seeds and mill what is left. Nothing is added and nothing is taken out. What goes into the mill is carob. What comes out is carob flour.

THE SWEETNESS IS ALREADY THERE

Carob is sweet on its own, the sugars belong to the fruit, not to the bag. Dark, roasted and malty, it stands in for cocoa in almost any recipe, but rounder and without the bitterness. And with no caffeine.

WORTH KNOWING

Carob seeds are so alike in weight that they were once used to balance the scales against gold. The word carat comes from them.

Meet our Products.

Carob Flour

400g

RECIPES

SAVOURY CAROB MUFFINS WITH OLIVES

100 g carob flour · 200 g plain flour · 15 g baking powder
¾ tsp salt · ½ tsp dried oregano · ½ tsp dried thyme
300 g milk or plant-based drink · 100 g olive oil
100 g pitted olives, finely chopped

Mix the carob flour with the plain flour, baking powder, salt, oregano and thyme. Whisk the milk with the olive oil, add the dry ingredients and fold gently. Just before they combine, add two thirds of the olives. Divide between the cups of a greased muffin tin, scatter over the rest and bake at 170°C / 340°F, fan, for about 17 minutes. Makes 12.

NO-BAKE CAROB & OAT BARS

200 g rolled oats · 100 g carob flour · ¼ tsp salt
½ tsp ground cinnamon · 80 g honey or maple syrup
70 g sesame paste or nut butter
90 g milk or plant-based drink · 1 tsp vanilla extract

Blitz the oats finely in a food processor, then mix with the carob flour, salt and cinnamon. Whisk the honey with the sesame paste, milk and vanilla, add the oat mixture and stir to a thick paste. Press into a 25 × 25 cm tin lined with baking paper, cover and chill until firm. Cut into 12 bars.

Carob Flour Mix

Self-rising
500g

RECIPES

CAROB BROWNIES

800 g butter (82% fat) · 830 g dark chocolate (62% cocoa)
625 g eggs · 800 g sugar · 200 g honey or agave syrup
500 g carob flour mix

Melt the chocolate with the butter over a bain-marie. Whisk the eggs and sugar until pale, add the honey, then fold in the flour. Spread onto a tray and bake at 180°C / 350°F, fan, 20 min.

CAROB BUTTER BISCUITS

270 g butter (82% fat) · 140 g caster sugar · 80 g egg
1 g vanilla · 500 g carob flour mix

Beat the butter, sugar and vanilla until fluffy, adding the egg gradually. Add the flour and mix for 2 min. Cut out the biscuits and bake at 180°C / 350°F for 20 min.

OLIVE OIL BISCUITS

500 g carob flour mix · 185 g olive oil · 185 g orange juice
155 g sugar · 6 g ground cinnamon · zest of 1 orange

Stir the olive oil, orange juice and sugar until the sugar dissolves. Add the cinnamon and zest, then fold in the flour. Bake in a fan oven at 170°C / 340°F for 20 min.

Carob Cake Easy Mix

500g

RECIPE

CAROB CAKE

500 g carob cake mix · 225 g water · 200 g sunflower oil

Place all the ingredients in a mixer and beat on low speed for 7 minutes.
Transfer the batter to a 30 × 10 cm tin. Bake in a preheated oven at 170°C / 340°F for approximately 25–35 minutes.

MILLS OF ARKADI S.A.

Rethymno · Crete · Greece

We are a modern flour mill in Rethymno, Crete. Our production lines mill soft and durum wheat, barley and carob into a full range of professional flours and bakery mixes, alongside a traditional stone mill. Everything we make is backed by strict quality control and chemical-free, temperature-controlled grain storage.

10,000 m² facilities

20+ product codes

24 t/24h carob line

Contact Us